FOREWORD

During our high school careers, we, the Class of 1959, have become aware of the many developments in the field of outer space. As we are the first class to graduate since the official initiation of this new field, the editors of THE MIRROR have built the theme of this yearbook around "The Age of Space Conquests." By perusing the pages of this book in the future years the reader will recall the initial attempts of the United States in the space field and its effects on our modern society. However, this yearbook is not only a study of the Space Age but is also an actual document of the deeds and accomplishments of the Class of 1959.

The editors sincerely hope that with the assistance of this book all will find much enjoyment reminiscing over many unforgettable moments.

DEDICATION

As we approach the first great milestone in our lives, our high school graduation, we owe a debt of gratitude to many people, particularly to our wonderful parents. Our parents, through their unselfish sacrifices, have done without many necessities so that we could have the benefit of a better education. Above this, they have given us many intangible gifts, such as sympathy, patience, understanding, and the greatest of all gifts, love.

In appreciation for all they have done to make our high school days the happiest days of our lives, the editors of the 1959 MIRROR proudly dedicate this yearbook to the parents of the members of the Senior Class.

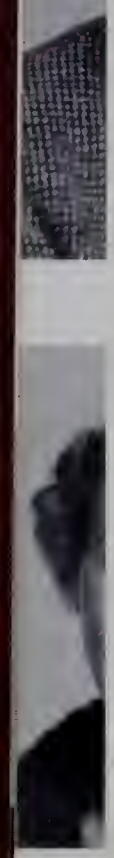
This story is a study in American capitalism, prepared by a United States history class under the supervision of Miss Louise G. McCullough, Head of the Social Studies Department.



L'AMÉRIQUE

New York, enfin! New York devant nous se dressait
Sombre, majestueux, dans le soir qui tombait,
Et nous nous bousculions, sur le pont, empressés,
Avides d'émotions, curieux, émerveillés!

Oui, nous étions tous là, venus du monde entier,
Enfants de Belgique, de Suede, de France,
Tous prêts à accomplir un rêve familier
Qui depuis longtemps berçait notre fière adolescence.

New York c'est l'Amérique, O pays fabuleux,
C'est la vie trépidante des rues et des usines,
La hâte des millions d'ouvriers consciencieux,
Anonymes cerveaux d'une énorme machine.

Américains, pourtant, vous n'avez rien perdu
De tous ces grands principes que le monde fait valoir
Vous chérissez toujours ce qu'à tout homme est dû,
Compréhension, respect, amour, honeur, et gloire.

Dans un monde brûlant d'expériences atomiques
L'Amérique est restée joie de vivre et gaiete
Musique romantique et vraie dont le pouvoir magique
Ebranle notre âme par sa sourde beauté.

L'Amérique est enfin Idéals, Amour, Humanité
Et surtout Liberté, Liberté, Liberté!

GENEVIEVE BERNADAC

AMERICA

New York at last! New York before us, standing
Gloomy, majestic in the falling shadows,
And we were jostling on the deck, eager,
Full of emotions, curious, astonished!

Yes, we all were there, from the whole world
Young people from Belgium, Sweden, France,
All ready to achieve a familiar dream,
Which for a long time had been stirring in our youthful minds.

New York is America, O fabulous country!
It is the pulsating life of the streets and the factories,
The hurry of millions of conscientious workmen,
Anonymous brains of a huge machine.

Nevertheless, Americans, you have lost none
Of those great principles which people of the world glorify;
You always cherish what is owed to every man,
Understanding, respect, love, honor, and glory.

In this Atomic Age
America retains its gaiety and joy of life,
The magic power of its romantic music
Moves our very soul by its fascinating rhythms.

But even more America stands for Ideals,
Love, Humanity,
And above all Liberty, Liberty, Liberty!

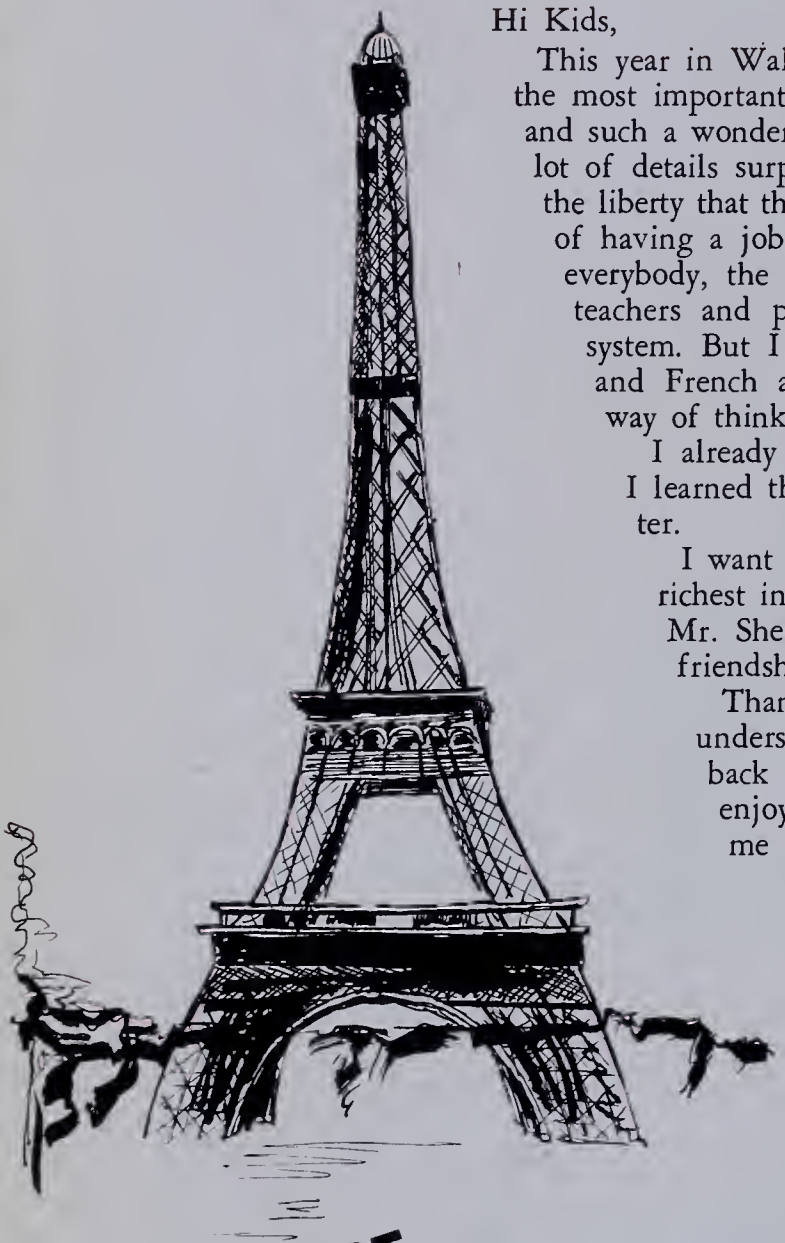
Paula Ryan



Hi Kids,

This year in Waltham has been, and will always be, one of the most important in my life. I had so many new experiences and such a wonderful time. I remember that in the beginning a lot of details surprised me—the number of cars and their size, the liberty that the teenagers were enjoying and their opportunity of having a job, the hurry of the life, the nicknames given to everybody, the freedom between parents and children, between teachers and pupils, the relative ease of the American school system. But I was also amazed to find how similar Americans and French are, how their problems and preoccupations, their way of thinking, their feelings and ideals are the same!

I already knew that Americans are very friendly people, but I learned this year how to understand and appreciate them better.

I want you to know that you made this year the happiest and richest in experiences, that I'll always remember Waltham High, Mr. Sheehy, the teachers, and all of you girls and boys whose friendship has been so nice and so helpful!

Thank you, everybody, for your welcoming, your help and understanding, your simplicity and kindness. I hope I'll come back some day to visit you and to tell you again how much I enjoyed my stay with you, who contributed so much in giving me the best impression of the United States.

FRANCE

INDONE

Hi Kids,

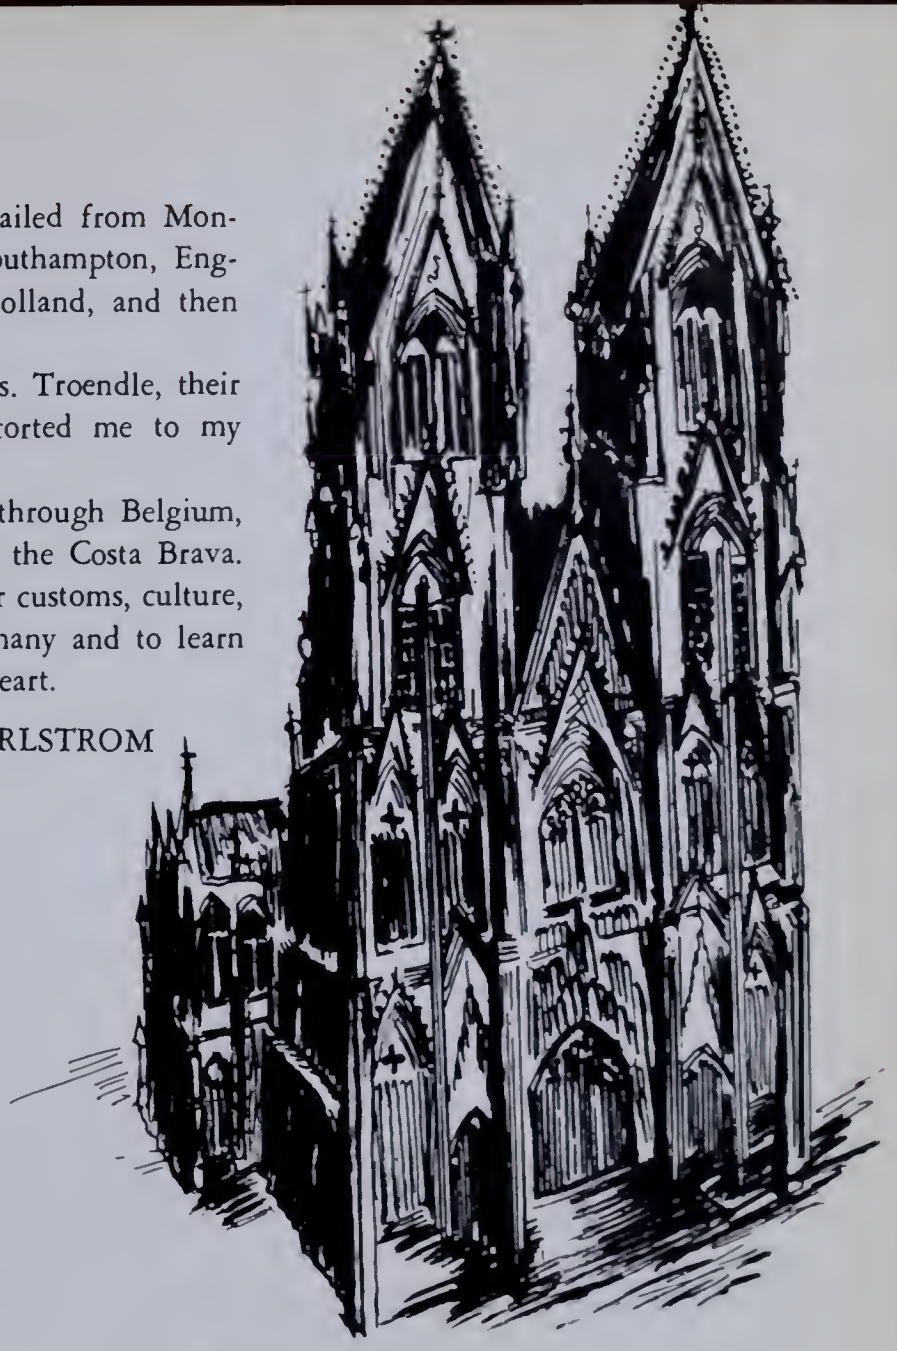
As Waltham High School's student to West Germany, I sailed from Montreal, Canada, on June 11. After an enjoyable crossing via Southampton, England, and Le Harve, France, I disembarked at Rotterdam, Holland, and then traveled through Holland to Koln, Germany.

There I was warmly received by my "family," Mr. and Mrs. Troendle, their daughter Ingeborg, and their son Volker, all of whom escorted me to my "home" in Bensberg, a small town 12 miles east of Koln.

During my stay in Europe, I had the opportunity to travel through Belgium, Luxembourg, and France to Spain, where I spent 12 days on the Costa Brava.

Having been greatly impressed with the German people, their customs, culture, and mode of living, I have a sincere desire to return to Germany and to learn a great deal more about this European nation, first in my heart.

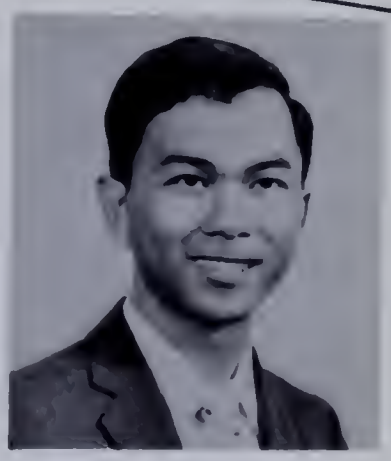
DONNA CARLSTROM



GERMANY

Hi Kids,

"There is the time to meet, there is the time to leave," our proverb says. And the time to leave now is coming to me. When the airplane takes me back home, it will also carry with me many experiences I've got, many knowledges I've received, many stories I'll tell to the people. It is a story of young Americans at work in drug stores, public markets, gas stations, washing dishes, baby sitting; it is a story of spirited young Americans cheering their football team (of which they are proud, whether their team is winning or losing) led by their nice cheerleaders; it is also a story of high school students who are busy looking for books for their term papers or book reports; it is another story of a vivid classroom which is discussing the work of a famous writer; it is a story, it is a story, yes, many stories I can tell to my friends at home.



Perhaps some of my friends will ask me, "How are American teachers?" I'll answer, "They are experienced teachers who teach not only knowledges but also discipline and seriousness in study. They spend much time with their students." And probably some of my friends will compare it with their own teachers: they are good teachers too; they are teachers who are respected by their students, but they don't have enough time to spend with their students, for they have to teach in two or three other schools each day where their energy and their knowledges are needed.

And when I am sitting down in front of my desk to write something about America for my school paper, I'll be busy reminding myself of how high school students work for their paper, for their yearbook, for their play, for their clubs, etc.

Thanks a lot to all of you, and I hope I'll see you all again either here or in Indonesia Selamat tinggal (Good-bye)

Always,

ABDUL NUR ADNAN

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Scholarship! Leadership! Character! Service! These are the four ideals of a National Honor Society, and our society at Waltham High strives to live up to these qualities. In our Junior year we were eligible for membership in this organization, and this year more senior students have joined our ranks. We, the members of the National Honor Society, are always ready and willing to perform any duties which might be of service to our school. We sincerely hope that the incoming juniors will fulfill their obligations as faithfully as we have tried to fulfill ours.

CLASS POEM — 1959

THE CHALLENGE TO YOUTH

In specter form the past doth rise
To us who now step forth.
In pensive gaze we view our lives.
And trace our path on earth.

With dampened eyes all now depart
To conquer unknown fields.
To us our country's cries are heard,
Our country's hopes revealed.

Oh young minds which in courage bathe,
'Tis yours this world of woe.
Armed with knowledge new acquired,
To vanquish every foe.

What better chance for fortune has Been offered to Ambition?
We'll stride ahead, new progress make,
Our knowledge—ammunition.

Who shall accept this challenge great
Which all of us must meet?
Who first shall be the one to seize
The victory or defeat?

Be humble, for ye shall accept
The torch from lofty hands,
The Divine Director of our fate
Is master of our land.

CLASS
1956 —

We, the Class of 1959, entered the doors of Waltham Senior High for the first time in September, 1956. Thus we launched ourselves into the exciting orbit of activity in a large high school. After a few weeks of exploration in this strange environment, we performed our first duty as a class and held elections for homeroom legislators to the Student Council.. Those chosen were Donald Bell, Judy Vanasse, Joe Curtin, Theresa Castellana, Elaine Freeman, Geraldine Rizzo, Weston Smith, Charles Kresser, and Barbara Jones.

Serving as a get-acquainted dance, the Harvest Frolic was the forerunner of many successful social events which we were to enjoy during our high school days.

A significant highlight of our high school careers was the election of our first class officers. Ken Kezer was named to serve as president, capably assisted by Dick Farr as vice-president, Linda Campisi as secretary, and Gale Lazaro as treasurer.

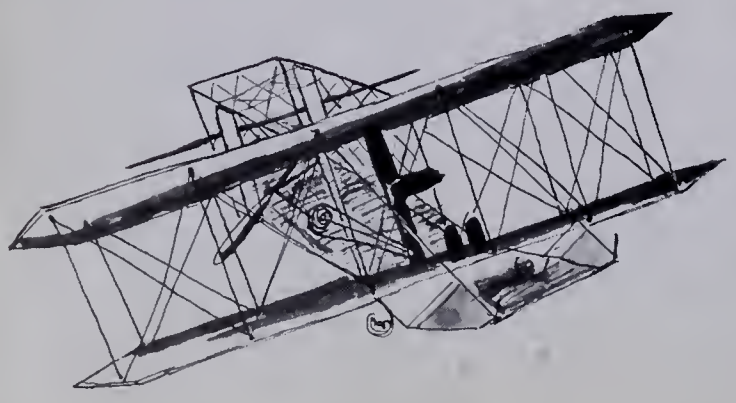
In December the Student Council selected Marcia Aucoin to help cheer the hockey team to victory.

The Waltham High basketball team, sparked by the talents of outstanding sophomore players, Ken Feeley and Ken Kezer, twice defeated a strong Brockton five and compiled a record of ten wins and two losses to capture second place in the Suburban League. The first team from our school since 1950 to secure a Tech Tourney berth defeated its Salem opponent and then proceeded to the quarter-finals only to be defeated by a powerful Lynn-English quintet.

In March, Waltham High presented one of its most successful productions, That's Entertainment, featuring many talented members of the Sophomore Class. This annual talent show served as a kick-off event for the 1957 Share in Democracy campaign.

April brought a shower of stars in the Dramatic Club production, Salad Days, a three-act comedy.

In the spring of 1957, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Keenan, Waltham High established a chapter of the Junior Classical League. Twenty-one proud members of the Sophomore Class were initiated into the Amici Latini.



Two members of our class were honored by special awards: Hope Luder was the recipient of a Gold Key Award for fine art work, and Donna Carlstrom was appointed co-chairman of the Red Cross for Waltham High.

In June the Student Council selected five members from the Sophomore Class to be cheerleaders for the coming 1957-58 football seasons. They were Dee Curtin, Linda Campisi, Elaine Freeman, Fredericka Ouellette, and Janet Yamartino.

With the advent of summer vacation, we realized that our sophomore year was behind us, and we began to anticipate the fun we would have as juniors.

Upon returning to school in the fall, we were thrilled at the prospect of spending our junior year at the Lexington Street School. The only drawback was that we were as completely confused by the maze of corridors as the sophomores. After an investigation of our new surroundings, we elected the following homeroom representatives to the Student Council: Lois Beaton, Barbara Jones, Marjorie Owens, and Ken Kezer. Kevin Steede, Donald Bell, Martha LaRosee, and Peter MacDonald captured the honors of Junior Class president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

Led by the cheerleaders, the auditorium resounded to the cries of "Fight, score, win!" The occasion was the football rally which preceded the traditional Newton-Waltham game. A powerful Crimson eleven defeated arch-rival Newton, 27-7. This was not the only time that we had cause to cheer. During the victorious 1957 season, the football team compiled an impressive record of six wins, one tie, and one loss. Lending valuable support to the team were Ken Feeley, Paul Shea, Mal MacClary, Bob Cormier, Sepp Willscher, Angelo Cotoni, Jerry Chiarelli, Frank Cassidy, Paul Mogan, Bob Harrington, and Paul Gaudet, all able members of the Junior Class.

In November we attended a Harvest Dance where we acquainted ourselves with the new faculty members and underclassmen. Later that same month Martha LaRosee and Joy Baldaro were selected by the Student Council to join the hockey cheering squad.

In December, Judith Marcolina and Martha Hoyt joined the drum majorettes of the Waltham High School Band.

Many of us had the opportunity of observing the inaugural ceremony of Waltham's new chief executive, Mayor Austin Rhodes. As a departure from precedent, the ceremony was held in the beautiful auditorium of the school.

Among the new activities initiated during our exciting junior year were the Science Seminar, which held many interesting forums; a large, active Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Raymond Crawford; and a Ski Club, under the helpful supervision of Mrs. Gabriel.

Outstanding members of our class were the recipients of various awards of merit. Beth McInnis won the Waltham Singer Sewing contest.

HISTORY — 1959

Alan Flaschner, an active member of the Latin Club, was elected vice-president of the Massachusetts Junior Classical League. Robert Grady received the Harvard Book Award presented yearly to deserving juniors. Richard Farr, Hope Luder, and several others received cash awards in the Kingsbury Temperance Fund Essay Contest. The National Honor Society, in recognition of character, scholarship, leadership, and service, accepted twenty-five members of our Junior Class.

The prom, highlight of our junior year, had "Seventh Heaven" as its theme. We, too, were there on the cold night of February 21, 1958.

Donna Carlstrom was chosen to be our American Field Service student abroad for the summer of 1958. To support the A. F. S. program we toured the world in Cruising Along in '58.

In May, the Glee Club presented an operetta under the direction of Mr. Crawford. Donna Carlstrom starred in Naughty Marietta, and many other talented members of the junior class were a part of the cast. During the same month, the Dramatics Club presented its annual play, Life of the Party, a hilarious comedy, directed by Mr. Belliveau.

As the last official action of the year, the Student Council elected its new officers. They were Dick Farr, president; Louis Salamone, boys' vice-president; Donna Carlstrom, girls' vice-president; and Joy Baldaro, secretary-treasurer.

Returning to Waltham High in the fall of 1958, we, as seniors, elected permanent class officers to lead us through our most important year. The class favored Paul Mogan for president, Donald Bell for vice-president, Geraldine Rizzo for secretary, and Carl Carlman for treasurer.

Deanna Harrington and Louis Salamone were appointed by our headmaster, Mr. Sheehy, as co-editors-in-chief of the 1958-59 This Week at Waltham High column, and Geraldine Rizzo and Martha LaRosee as co-editors-in-chief of the 1959 Mirror.

The Maroon Squad, an organization of student monitors to supervise the cafeteria, was efficiently operated by the Student Council.

A Pep Club, also sponsored by the Student Council, was formed with the purpose of lending student support to our various school team. Barbara Bonica was elected president by its enthusiastic members. Leading the cheering of this group were newly selected cheerleaders Judy Wilson, Jane FitzGerald, Kathy O'Neil, and Captain-elect, Linda Campisi.

Co-captained by Ken Kezer and Paul Shea, the football team gained a decisive victory by defeating Lynn-English 40 to 20. Ken Kezer set a school record of 212 total yards gained, and the entire team bettered the previous yardage record.

The Senior Play, a three-act comedy entitled Turn Back the Clock, was presented in November. Sue Bourque and Paul Mogan played the leading roles. Helping to make this play one of the most successful ever presented by a Senior Class were Marsha Gile, chairman, and Lois Beaton, co-chairman.

The hockey team including these members of the Senior Class, Donald Bell, Richard Iannetti, Roy Milton, Robert Ridley, Kevin Steede, and Bill Morris, was supported by the faithful attendance of Cheerleaders Beth MacInnis, Susan King, Ann-Marie Chisholm, Ellie Nixon, and Marcia Aucoin, captain.

Led by Captain Ken Feeley, high scorer and top rebounder, the basketball team was commended for its sensational comeback in the Brockton game, its upset victory over Arlington, and its 63-62 triumph over Newton High in a Suburban League scorcher.

A senior Forum was initiated under the direction of the Student Council. The purpose of this organization was to bring significant matters before an interested group of students. Robert Grady was elected chairman, assisted by Mal MacClary as vice-chairman, Robert Nahigian as secretary, and Peter MacDonald as representative to the Student Council.

Richard Farr's essay, This is My Security, My True Security, ranked highest among entries from three local high schools in a contest sponsored by the Waltham Junior Chamber of Commerce. Janet Yamartino was elected by the student body and faculty as recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Award. Philip Connors was elected as delegate to Student Government Day at the State House in March. The Exchange Committee, consisting of Claire Bradley, Richard Farr, Pauline Ryder, Nancy Tecesco, and Carolyn Stevenson, conducted an exchange weekend at Waltham High School. Lois Beaton and Kathy O'Neil were our candidates for the March of Dimes Queen.

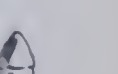
One of the most enjoyable events of the year was the entertainment provided by the United States Naval Band.

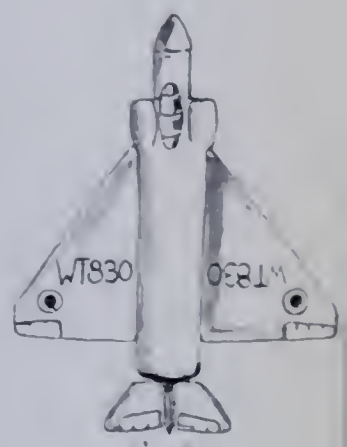
In March, the Dramatics Club presented Burner of the Bugle, a farce in three acts, directed by Mr. Gerald Belliveau.

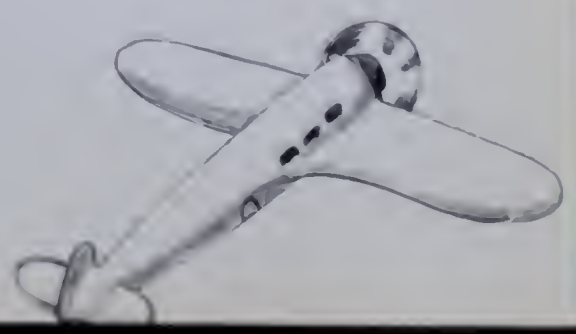
The beautiful evening of the Senior Prom was a fitting culmination to three years of laughter and academic pursuit. That wonderful event will be outstanding in our minds when we recall the many happy memories of our high school days.

As the time approaches for us to receive our diplomas and to depart from Waltham High, we sincerely recognize the efforts of our devoted faculty, who have done their best to prepare us for the future.

MARJORIE OWENS







CLASS WILL

Be it known to all men by these presents that we, the Class of 1959, being of undisguisedly unstable mind but of truly appreciative memory, do hereby give, devise, dispose, and convey these our remaining benefactions after just payment of our obligations.

To Mr. Sheehy, our amiable headmaster, we leave our heartfelt thanks for his unfailing leadership during our memorable high school years. As a small token of our gratitude we leave our tarnished halos to be displayed on the main corridor walls as an inspiration for future classes.

For Mr. May, our master, we hereby promise to install automatic monitors to detect talkers in the main corridors.

In order that our submaster Mr. Hood may fit his many projects into his tight schedule, we have secured permission from the National Timekeepers' Council to extend his day to thirty-six hours.

For our submaster Mr. Morang we have compiled a pamphlet entitled "A Shur-Nuff Cure for Spoonerisms" to prevent him from getting his words mixed up.

To Mr. Husson we bequeath a cattle ranch with one thousand head of steer to provide him with his own private supply of steak.

Miss McCullough has been fortunate enough to inherit another class of assiduous students to write a sequel to the book, The Golden Door, our history of Waltham.

To Mr. Avery we deliver a chaise longe so that he may "take a rest" whenever he has the inclination.

Mr. Meader shall receive a sky blue helicopter plus a landing, constructed on the W.H.S. roof, to bring him to school every day.

To Mr. Belliveau, our debonair dramatics club director, we will a new series of plays written by someone else other than Marrijane and Joseph Hayes.

We bequeath a weather station with all the latest instruments to Mr. Crehan with the provision that he forecast fair weather for all of next year's football games.

To Mrs. Dunbrack we give a package of seeds to grow a shoe tree for her forty-five pairs of shoes.

For Mrs. Goldings we have obtained an extra-large brief case in which to carry her voluminous French tests.

We have ordered a shiny red and white truck for Mr. O'Brien's son "Touchdown" to play with during his dull moments.

To the school we donate another Miss Coughlin, our sympathetic nurse, so that she may be in two places at the same time (although the copy could never equal the original in performance).

For Miss Mooney we are buying a jeweled strong box made of solid gold and equipped with lock and key to keep her pennies which she collects from gum chewers.

To Mr. Pettinati we leave the sophomore tech students for his rousing trigonometry classes with the assurance that "better days are coming."

Mr. Viscarello shall have a seventy-six inch cymbal installed on his set of drums on the condition that he use them every week-end during his band performances.

By special courier from England we send the Cullinan diamond to Miss Tahaney to add an extra little touch to her jewelry collection.

For Mrs. Flynn we donate a new group of library assistants as capable as those which she has had this year.

To the juniors we give the honor of following in our footsteps. (We don't quite know whether to call it an honor or a misfortune, but we humbly bequeath it in either case.)

We leave an unlimited supply of signed passes to the sophomores to be used at their discretion.

Having witnessed this final will and testament in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-nine, we do hereby and now invest it with our signatures as a seal of approval.

As the 1958 football season approached, Coach Joe Zeno and his staff were faced with a serious problem. With only three regulars from the previous varsity returning, eight positions had to be filled by mostly green and inexperienced players. Coupled with this disadvantage were the numerous injuries which sidelined many key players throughout the season. Despite these drawbacks the team fought hard, and Coach Zeno himself said he had never before seen spirit that was comparable to that of this year's team. It was this spirit and desire to win that crushed Lynn English 40-20, and came very close to upsetting our arch-rival Newton.

Coach Quinn, like Coach Zeno, was faced with a problem of experience when the 1959 basketball season rolled around. Having only two returnees from last year's quintet, Mr. Quinn had to bring up second string and junior varsity players to fill the open positions. Despite this handicap the Crimson dribblers held their own and the final outcome was suspended until the last few minutes of play in fifteen of their seventeen games. Of the nine losses suffered during the season, five were by five points or less, two of them going into overtime. Standout of the season was Captain Ken Feeley, who besides breaking the school record with 33 points, won the Suburban League scoring title.

Blanked by a season of twelve defeats and only two ties, our Crimson club closed out its last year in the Bay State Hockey League.

Our skaters this year could not break the thirteen year jinx with Walpole. Nevertheless, the boys were in there skating.

Both newcomers and veteran players are looking forward to becoming members of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey League next year, as is Coach Walter Brinn.

GIRLS'

BADMINTON

This fall an elimination badminton contest was held in the gym. After the sophomore, junior, and senior class winners were determined, the final playoffs among these three were held. Pauline Ryder, the senior class winner, defeated Ann Paquette and Janet Wiker, the junior and sophomore class winners respectively, and thus won the badminton championship for the 1958 season.

BOWLING

During the three years that the class of 1959 has spent in W.H.S., there has been an active bowling league. We have had class teams and matches annually with Arlington and Newton. Two trophies were won in 1958 by Georgia Dinjian, the highest individual scorer, and Eileen Jenkins, the girl with the highest bowling average.

BASKETBALL

Three teams, the varsity and two junior varsity teams, and the class teams gave us an eventful basketball season this year. Joanne Tomao was elected as the captain of the varsity squad and the senior class team. In the class matches our senior team came out on top. A game with St. Mary's of Waltham also highlighted the season.

SPORTS

VOLLEYBALL

"Side out; rotate," was the familiar cry heard at three annual volleyball matches with Cambridge Latin School in which many of our graduating seniors participated. Besides our interschool games, our class teams from sophomore to senior year won most of the class matches that we played.

SOFTBALL

Our softball season begins with trying for varsity, junior varsity, and class teams. Several members of our senior class have played varsity softball against Newton High School and Chapel Hill School for three seasons. These girls are: Joanne Tomao, Eileen Jenkins, Georgia Dinjian, Pauline Ryder, Sally Soles, Dorothy Savage, Barbara Jones, Martha Hoyt, and Sheila Witherell.

CLASS PROPHECY — 1959

Alice had just finished putting away the dinner dishes and thoroughly exhausted had slumped into her cozy divan. Beside her was her charming teenage daughter viciously chewing her gum and reading her English literature assignment. "How dull," Alice thought; "there aren't even any pictures in this book." Suddenly from the front yard came a piercing, positively inhuman yelp! Seized by the horrid thought that her husband, Peter Anderson, had again tripped over the ash barrels, Alice dashed outside with her Doctor Bell's Handy Health Kit. Realizing that Peter and Mr. Richard Mikula, partners in Sawdust Carpenters, Inc., were in the cellar sawing away, Alice began to shrink away from the weird noise. Just then, while Alice stood trembling, a large white rabbit raced by. It wasn't so much his plaid jacket and sunglasses that stunned Alice, but rather his illustrious voice screaming, "Oh dear! Oh dear! I'll be too late!" In a semi-hypnotized condition Alice hopped after the hysterical hare. After carrying on this ridiculous display for what seemed an eternity, Alice glanced at her watch and was startled to discover that she was losing altitude—FAST! This descending journey ended abruptly and painfully on a cement slab. Upon coming out of unconsciousness, Alice noticed that the rabbit was gone and that she was in a strange new land—Walthamland—a place where all good little grads go after high school. A luxurious Lincoln and Schaufus limousine pulled up alongside her, and the suave chauffeur coolly inquired, "Want a lift, lady?" Weakly Alice replied that she would and jumped in, remembering to remove her muddy shoes before entering the plush auto. "Hello, I'm Gerald Burke, President of the Waltham City Council," remarked the gentleman in the back seat, "and I'm here to give you a tour of wonderful Walthamland. You're going to meet a lot of old friends from Ye Olde Classe of 1959." "How simply lovely," thought Alice.

Whizzing down Route 127 9/10, Alice noticed a large building called the Grady and Cosgrove Research Center. These two brilliant scientists are developing an underground missile that will burrow through tons of earth and bring destruction to Communist moles. Alice and Mr. Burke first stopped at the Industrial Auditorium where the big business czars were meeting. They were gathered together to decide whether millionaire playboy Paul Joyce could rent part of the highway where he could hold weekly Jaguar races. Debating this problem were Wayne Murray, plant superintendent of Allen's Atomic Action Center, Joseph Bonica, manager of Ricci's Rocket Research Laboratories, and Robert Cocivera, chief taster at Castellana's Kumquat Canneries.

Continuing down the highway of Walthamland, they were stopped for speeding by Chief of Police Everett Ritcey. After that embarrassing incident Alice and Mr. Burke visited the Peter MacDonald Hospital where Doctor Vincent Hayes, formerly of the Welding Department, was performing a delicate operation on Bill McDermott, a vacuum cleaner salesman with a tendency to stick his hands in suction tubes. Dr. Hayes was capably assisted by Dr. Thomas Shaughnessy and Dr. Gerald Chiarelli and nurses Eleanor Nixon and Barbara Webb. In the next room Chief Therapist Claire Bradley was soothing the ills of Lawrence Holbrook, famous football star, who had sprained his finger in the Robert Harrington Gym. Alice found great enjoyment in testing the air-conditioned Arnold Nelson Elevators, but her joy-riding was quickly squelched by hospital administrator Stephen Papia. A much irritated Mr. Burke resumed his guided tour with his guest and took her to the laboratories. There Mike Shirley and Warren Terrell were making the acid test on white handkerchiefs (acid and handkerchiefs were purchased at the Champion and Carlman Pharmacy). No doubt you've witnessed this dangerous feat on television. After Alice had sufficiently plagued the staff, medical secretary Dee Curtin paged two hospital officials, Albert Ricard and Allen Questrom, to hurriedly escort the visitors OUT.

If there's one place where you can find out what's going on about town, it's the newspaper office. Consequently next on the agenda was the Salamone Daily News. Stepping into the world of fire engine chasers, Alice was fascinated by the employees rushing from desk to water bubbler. She saw Millie Atkinson, Cookie Miller, and Sonya Youngquist busily click-click-clicking at the typewriters. Michael Gallant was feverishly finishing his "latest scoop," and Bob Garland was loudly snapping, "Copy boy! Copy boy!" George Goguen and Ronald West were setting up the type for the evening's exciting headlines, "LaVoie's Spaceship Leaves Tonight!" Alice was going to be on the flight, although she was unaware of it then.

Soon Alice was whisked off to City Court where Judge Richard Farr was presiding over the fiery Fred Sweet vs. James Cooke Trial. Mr. Sweet claimed that the archery king's stray arrows were leaving their marks in the Sweet apple orchard. Fred and his family just got fed up with apple sauce. The second case was the complaint of Fish Conservationist William Carter, who claimed that a certain home-made submarine, manned by James Arena and Mike Healion, was scaring the sardines in the Charles River. Lawyer Kenneth Brink won the case for Healion and Arena on the grounds that there weren't any sardines in the Charles and if they had the courage to navigate said river, they should do so. Stanley Gustavson, one of the jurors, indignantly retaliated and stated that he had caught many sardines in the Charles River. Everyone laughed; even the Fish Conservationist grinned.

Next Councillor Burke suggested they visit the Waltham television studio, but Alice insisted they have dinner first. The emaciated look on her face persuaded Gerry to take her to Dave Taranto's Pizzaria. Alice just fell in love with the special pizzas prepared by Linda Campisi and Carolyn Simonetti. Sitting at the table beside Alice were Martha LaRosee and Marjorie Owens, the community's women journalists, with Hope Luder and Audrey Taylor, well-known portrait painters. Not that Alice was eavesdropping, but she did overhear that Suzanne Bourque and Paul Mogan, idol of the middle-aged women, were appearing in a fabulous movie at Furlong's Fresh Air Theater. While waitress Helen LeBlanc handed Mr. Burke the check and the latter was placing the dime tip on the table, Alice noticed that President Richard Hohmann's head now appeared on the ten-cent piece.

"Gee, seeing all my old schoolmates again is truly terrific," exclaimed Alice as she climbed into the limousine. Now to television station WHIZ. That zany comedienne, Joyce Doria, was in full swing before the cameras when they entered the stage area. Joyce was so shocked to see Alice that she dropped her microphone, tripped over the wires, and fell flat on her face. Network president Joseph Nason and cameraman Danny Piper slowly and meticulously began tearing their hair out. Alice did the only thing she could;—she turned and RAN—ran right smack into the adjoining studio where Miss Donna Carlstrom, our ambassador to Germany, was giving an address on the cultural exchange of ideas for world harmony. Well, Alice added her two cents worth to Donna's speech; Germany will probably never speak to the United States again. Wandering into the WHIZ newsroom, Alice was greeted by commentator Diane Annunciata, who was celebrating her fifteenth anniversary in television. Alice stayed and heard the "News of the Hour." Newly appointed city accountants Dottie Savage and Carol Hudone were taking their oaths of office within the next week; the Pendergast and Maher Dental Laboratory was soon to open to the sheer delight of all the kiddies in town; and the La Voie Rocket was about to blast off.

Alice began to sense something "BIG" was about to happen when Mr. Burke and several policemen escorted her to the car. The limousine was at its peak velocity, and Alice was bouncing back and forth and kept hitting her head against the giant ash trays. When Alice and her troup finally stumbled out of the car, Admiral Kevin Steede rushed up to them and personally escorted them to the La Voie Rocket. This important event was augmented by the presence of the Tenth Regiment of Cub Scouts, who were giving their twenty-one sling shot salute. Climbing aboard the Saturn-bound ship, the tourists were greeted by pretty stewardesses Lois Bomengen and Betty De Profio. This newly developed space vessel was in the capable hands of pilot Paul Whelan and co-pilot Eddie Le Clair. Alice knew this, but she still wanted to be reassured every two seconds. Squirming into her tiny seat, Alice noticed that next to her was Joan Dennehy, professional skier, and Mary Mareno, champion figure skater. After chatting with her companions, Alice decided to catch up on the latest social news by perusing the high-grade publication, "We've Passed the Joneses," edited by Irene Geoffrion and Mary Mula.

"Fasten your seat belts, ladies and gentlemen!" A panicky Alice immediately strapped herself securely to the chair and checked to make sure she was equipped with an "ejector button." "Here we go!" Alice tremulously mumbled with a meek smile on her distraught visage. On board the stewardesses served those luscious Luskin Lobsters for dinner. All in all the trip was quite enjoyable, but Alice was scared to death and practically glued herself to the "Emergency Door" during the no-gravity zone lapse.

THUMP!!! "We've stopped! We've landed!" Alice hysterically screamed. "I want to put my feet on saturna firma!" Alice gazed about her and was pleasantly surprised to discover a charming housing development situated near the space terminal. "Leavittown, Saturn! What do you know!" Alice couldn't believe that some of her schoolmates had moved this far out into the suburbs. Mr. Burke took Alice to the First Interplanetary Bank; President Frances Ordile and Vice-President Lois Murray showed her the gigantic vaults that cradled the space money. Alice was delighted when she saw that the currency was of that glorious green hue. At one of the larger deposit boxes, research plant president Barbara Bergantino was withdrawing several hundred dollars, her week's spending money.

Joyfully leaving the bank a littler richer, Alice focused her eyes on the Permanent Wave, a beauty salon owned by Katherine Miminos and Barbara Ciavardone. Contemplating entering the beauty parlor, Alice soon changed her mind upon perceiving the sign "We'll make you look the way you think you do."

Alice was swiftly sped to the University of Saturn, and was graciously received by a distinguished gentleman sporting a pipe. He was Dean Robert Ridley. She couldn't believe it; that is, she couldn't believe that Bob-ole-boy was smoking a pipe. Alice was treated to an exciting tour of the campus where she encountered professors Pauline Ryder and Eileen Jenkins. It was getting late, so Mr. Burke and Alice said adieu to Dean Ridley and proceeded to return to the rocket. On the way they stopped for refreshments at the three-ring sign of "Saturn Dry," owned and operated by Bobby Fegan, assisted by Nancy Maher and Phyllis Rousseau. Safely again in the space ship, Alice and the other passengers prepared for take-off. With the speed of light, in a cloud of dust, and a hearty "Hi-ho processed aluminum," the La Voie Rocket blasted off again!

Whoosh!!! "Back to earth already?" our little darling asked. That they were, and a big surprise was awaiting Alice. Good-will ambassadors Shirley Dietrich and Bea Spilva hurriedly whisked her to a cheering crowd at the LeCain Lecture Hall. "What's this?" Alice gasped; "a birthday party for me?" It wasn't her birthday, but she didn't want to say anything that might cause a riot. Congressman Charles Mason arose, pacified the jovial mob, and, lifting his glass of Fay's Finest Fruit Juice, offered a toast to Alice. Sitting down to the delicious dinner prepared by the Chisholm and White Catering Service, Alice sampled the Baldaro Loaf Bread smothered with Olofson Oleo. "My, this certainly is a high class party," thought Alice as she observed Elaine Ritcey, founder of that famous hotel, The Ritzy, seated at the head table. The entire class of 1959 was present to honor their guest; there was Anna Copson, Senator Mason's executive secretary, Hollywood celebrities Pat Gillis and Nellie Pouliot, and Indianapolis Speedway Queen, Linda Swenson. After everyone had finished his Stone-Cole Ice Cream Pie, Gerry Rizzo, noted dinner club lecturer, delivered an auspicious oration. Ruth Harris and Pat MacDonald, representatives of the magazine, "The Pacific Weekly," also spoke briefly. Entertainment was provided by Drummer Fred Hire and guitar-plunking Roger Melanson. Songstress Judy Vannasse exercised her vocal chords with her latest million-selling disk, "She was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage Cha Cha Cha." Everything was utterly wonderful, classmate after classmate chatting and chuckling with Alice.

In the midst of this gay social whirl, Alice began to feel peculiar, very peculiar. All about her was growing bigger and BIGGER. No! She was shrinking!. Inch by inch she was shriveling away to nothing, just getting teensier and weensier by the second. "Help, help!" Alice squeaked. "H-E-L-P!"

Peter Anderson was shaking his wife Alice out of her disturbed slumber. "Were you having a nightmare?" Peter inquired. "Oh no," Alice quietly explained, "I was just dreaming of my friends in Walthamland." Considering the possibility that his poor wife might be suffering from an acute case of a wild imagination, Peter didn't press the issue but told Alice that their son Herman had been screaming for his Dougan Dairy milk for fifteen minutes. Peter couldn't possibly bring Herman Nature's perfect food, for his favorite program, the Quirk Quiz Show, was on television. Consequently Alice had to do the honors. She mounted the stairs, collected herself before the door of screaming Herman's room, and plodded in. "Okay, Herman, Okay! Here's your Dougan Dairy milk." "I don't want my Dougan Dairy milk!" Herman hollered, "I want you to read the story of Alice in Wonderland to me!" Alice collapsed.

TO YOU! OUR WALTHAM HIGH SCHOOL
GRADUATING CLASS OF 1959

Congratulations and very best wishes to each of you as you become a Waltham High School Graduate and join its distinguished group of Alumni. As you pass this milestone in your quest for knowledge and understanding, we hope that it proves to be merely one of the stepping stones that will lead you to the highest possible education that is within your power to attain.

Sincerely yours,

Louis J. Kirsch Jr.
